

How to Write a Conclusion for an Essay Art School Application

As time went by, my obsession grew into something bigger than art; ('As time went by' signals maturation) it grew into a dream of developing myself for the world. (Showing student's interest of developing himself for the community)

It is a dream of not only seeing the world from a different perspective but also changing the perspective of people who see my work. (Showing student's determination to create moving pieces of art)

The best way to express feelings and ideas is through art, because everyone experiences it through their own experience. (Why art is important to the student and overall)

It is more than stepping into someone else's shoes. (Taking the cliché of 'someone else's shoes' to the next level)

It is about conquering the world, and allowing it to conquer me. (An ambitious ending to win the hearts of those admission officers)
